Fever and Ague,

from which mankind suffer over a large pert of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetchle decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of soluribeat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the watery vapor from it. While the sain is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the sairth sourface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and excreting orgens of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the time and the bile secremble. secrete not only this virus, but also the tile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the Instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the nextlous infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the Internal excretorial to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rushes to the central crgans with congestive violence. This is the CHILL. But in this effort it fails. Then the Faven follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great exercts. The the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength. exhausted, and white for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless offert another day. These are the fits or peroxysms of Fever and Asce. Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.

SPEECH OF, HON. JOHN A. PRALL,

MR SPEAKER-

The committee on Federal Relations who have instructed me to report the resolution. which is now before the Senate, have thought that inasmuch as the action of this General Assembly nt an early period of the session, by which we called forth the military strength aid of our Government, to repel, it was fit and appropriate now that we should announce that it is not the purpose of Kentucky to abandon that Government which, in this great emergency, has come so promptly to our rescue, but that we will still follow be removed beyond our borders.

The committee have also attempted to compress within the compass of a single resolution, in connection with this declaration, a clear and emphatic statement of the position which Kentucky has hitherto occupied pending the great and momentons struggle of our Government against the formidable efforts which have been made for its destruction. The attitude of our State in this great crisis of the country has been the subject of constant miseonstruction and misapprehension. At the outset of this great rebellion, with an earnest and patriotic zeal, Kentucky entered upon the work of conciliation and compromise, in the hope that her interposition might be effective in arresting the ruin which seemed impending over the country. And even at a later period, after the fierce and bloody conflict had begun, she still, so far, clung to the hope that she might yet be able to mediate for the restoration of barmony and peace, that she declined, for the time, to furnish her quotu of troops or to take part in the war. And this position which she assumed with motives so honorable and patriotic, and which was popularly denominated neutrality, has been sometimes micapprehended, but more frequently perverted by those whose wish was father to the treasonable thought, and has been construed as placing the State in an attitude of absolute independence and separation from the Federal Union, occupying precisely the same relations to the Government of which we form a part, and to which we have her citizens at the hands of those against steadily adhered, and to the enemies who whom, in the abounding fullness of her fraare attempting to destroy it. Nothing could be farther from the truth of history, nor more at variance with the lofty and patriotie sentiments and purposes of those who have guided the policy of Kentucky through this subjects in their broader antional hearing stormy period. The candid historian of Secession or the assumption of a constitu these great events will record that however that policy may have seemed to change, it has been in strict adaptation to the shifting exigencies of the times, and in perfect harmony with a sentiment of loyalty deeply implanted in the hearts of our people, and which knows no change

The neutrality which secese onists have attempted to fasten upon us, is but another name for secession, and secession under whatever name, and in whatever form und guise. has been sternly and indignantly rejected and spurned by our people as often as their voice has been spoken at the polls. And Kentucky has taken no position by any ac- and supreme authority of the General Govtion of her Legislature, nor in the clear and ernment over the subjects committed to its etatesman-like resolutions of the Senator from Kenton, (Mr. Fisk,) which were adopted by the Senate in May last, nor in the forcible and luminous address of her delegates to the Border State Convention, that sat in he Union and the government

It is emphati spurned, and finally defeated by those who, in the inadness of their ambitious aims, were bent upon the ruin of their country When the Legislature met here in Mnrch, the plot of the revolutionary leaders had been so far successful that seven of the cotton States had been wildly precipitated into rebellion. But the march of the revolution seemed to have paused. Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and Arkansas, had declared for the Union by a decided, and, in some of them, an overwhelming vote of their people, the last time their people were eral Judiciary. Such is our government; ballots at the point of Secession bayonets At once the putriotic purpose was conceived of bringing to bear the conservatism and loy ilty of these and the other four adhering States of the South, and through their con centrated influence to restore the secoling order, under the direction of local magistrastates to the Union, and a convention of these eight States was called, to assemble in this city, in the month of May. I have thus, Mr. Spenker, attempted to trace the leading outlines of this "bloodiest picture in the book of time," and to glance at the sweeping progress of this great rebel-lion with special reference to the relations which Kentucky has sustained to these great events up to the time when she was startled from her dreams of conciliation and peace by the tramp of the invader upon her soil, and by the ring of her homes, the devastation of her fields, nud the murder of ternity, she hitherto refused to strike a blow. It remains, as pertinent to the scope of the resolution before us, that I should speak very briefly of those grave and momentous subjects in their broader untional bearing. tional right in each State in the exercise of its reserved sovereignty of its motion to rend the bonds of the Union, and sever its connection with the government, is a pernicious and glaring heresy, atterly at war with the fundamental principles which torm the basis of our institutions. I am a State rights man and have always been-but I am no less u United States rights man. Ours is a complex political system, in which the wisdom of its venerated and illustrious founders happily blended in perfect harmony the power of the States in the control of their local and internal affairs, with that perveding Federal Umon is a government, and not a riod, has been to deduce her constitution ares the son This attempted mediation of Kentucky the deep and enduring foundations upon cally a government not of States, but of the people-derived from the people, sustained ny the people, and in the exercise of its great functions acting directly upon the people. With them State action is omnipo tent and irresistible, and when it comes in aid of treason and rebellion but powerless in the support of loyalty to the Government of which we form a part.

It has been reserved for these Ken tucky statesmen to give the grand cli-max to the pestilent and wicked heresies which had their origin in Charleston, some thirty years ago, and which we supposed had culminated in the secession movement of the present day. They have gone far beyond the original apostles of their despicable faith. South Carolina, in 1832, very modestly assumed the right in virtue, of her inherent and reserved sovereignty as a State, to annul the laws of Congress which she might choose to regard as unconstitu tional, and to which she night find it incon venient to submit while still remaining a member of the Union. And the only adcharge, which constitutes us a nation. The vance she has made in the intervening peconfederation or a league. The bonds of the right to throw off the Union altogether, old confederation were too frail and weak to But these States rights theorists of ours have hold together a great and united people, and expanded these doctrines to their logical this hall, nor in any other authoritative declarations of the State, which did not comport, in her judgment, with the clearest and fullest loyalty and the firmest adherence to words of its preamble, the constitution declaration and the firmest adherence to words of its preamble, the constitution declaration and the firmest adherence to words of its preamble, the constitution declaration and they have discovered that, as a State of the members of the Union -has a right, in virtue of its sovereignly, to annul the laws, and throw off the authority of the common government, so each citizer ias similar powers, springing from his indiidual and personal sovereignty, in reference to the government of a State. And to cary into practical operation this deduction of theirs, which seems fairly to result from the premises, they have recently assembled in ussellville, some forty or fifty in number, without authority from any one, and representing nobody but themselves, and having thority, there is but one tribunal competent aggregated their respective personal sover to decide the question, and that is the Fed. eignties into the form of a snall confederation, have solemuly nullified all the laws of permitted to vote, till they came to give their such is the system which our fathers framed this Legislature, repudiated the taxes in And posed by the State, and deliberately excomhus with the history of the world before municated the entire State government, and Even His Ex into the distant future, they so formed their cellency, the Governor, has not escaped noble work that internal security and social them, but has been decapitated among the Curan, Thomas looked promising and hopeful for the speedy And all the accession ordinances that have have songht some extra constitutional means restoration of fraternity and peuce. Standing thus be-tween the extremes, and closely identified cannot absolve a single American citizen and off flies the gubernutorial head. And with both, it can scarcely be doubted that whatever basis of adjustment might have been proposed by the united action of this. And it is such a government as this, in the like Governor for his approval, we are sudand that all power and dominion within this Commonwealth is in the hunds of Governor Herrill, Henry Geo. W.
